

In the tritycene lab, when you “add the anthranilic acid/glyme mixture to the reaction tube dropwise over a 20-min period through a rubber septum”, since gas is formed in this reaction, you need to poke another needle into the rubber septum to gradually release the inside pressure. See the picture below.

